Abstract

This book draws on feminist and more-than-human approaches to re-imagine gender in the early childhood workforce. Debates, policies and practices around gender in the early childhood workforce have predominantly focused on the under-representation of men and the recuperative outcomes promised through the inclusion of men. Mohandas' research is, however, concerned with the ways a gendered workforce can be re-imagined when the boundaries of research are stretched beyond mere human inclusion and attention is paid to ordinary objects and unassuming relations that constitute everyday life in the nursery. Through an attunement to the atmospheric, a gendered workforce is re-conceptualised as gendered forces that work across bodies (human and nonhuman), spaces, places and temporalities. Through vignettes from the nursery, Mohandas makes visible how each encounter is composed of gendered and more-than-gendered (i.e. racialised, classed and casted) forces, relations, stories and worlds. By employing feminist theorisations that foreground materiality, affect, discourse, place and temporalities, the book offers new ways to deepen conversations and practices around gender in the early childhood workforce.

Imagining Gender Equality: Perspectives on Equality from a Feminist Viewpoint

June 2025 · Journal of Global Trends in Social Science

[...] · Zhuo Liu

The perspective on equality from a feminist viewpoint is proposed based on revealing the unequal patriarchal social structure. It explains the inequality of the patriarchal system from two aspects: temporal inequality and structural inequality. Based on this, the feminist perspective on equality deepens the understanding of the dynamics between the sexes in the process of transitioning from a ... [\[Show full abstract\]](#)

Early childhood workforce sustainability is an important issue, with implications for children, families and national productivity, as well as for educators themselves. Yet, in many national contexts, workforce challenges continue to undermine efforts to support sustainability. In this article, we evaluate efforts to address early childhood workforce challenges in the Australian context, where ... [\[Show full abstract\]](#)

Transgressing the Boundaries: Re-Imagining Gender in Education

November 2013 · Mediterranean Journal of Social Sciences

● Kholeka Constance Moloi · [...] · Mamohale Dimema

In this paper we attempt to understand how organisational culture and structural conditions that occur simultaneously with the global processes of restructuring education, in which asymmetrical and unequal nature of social relations of gender are reconstructed through discourses of masculinity, rationality and leadership, inform such restructuring. We argue that schools and universities in South ... [\[Show full abstract\]](#)

Imagining Gender in Nineteenth-Century Fairy Tales by Hans Christian Andersen and Richard Henry Stod...

November 2020 · Nordic Journal of English Studies

[...] · Maria Holmgren Troy

Fairy tales have often been controversial, and today much of the controversy appears to revolve around gender issues. With a focus on gendered appearances and relationships, this article examines Hans Christian Andersen's 'Tommelise' and 'The Snow-Queen' as well as Adventures in Fairyland (1853), a book of fairy tales written by one of Andersen's admirers and promoters in nineteenth-century USA, ...
