MESS with Jayne Osgood and Sid Mohandas

Chapter

Aug 2025

Jayne Osgood · Sid Mohandas · Victoria De Rijke · Rebecca Sinker

This conversation is between two speakers from early years education: Jayne Osgood, Professor of Childhood Studies at Middlesex University, best known for her published works and impact on gender and early childhood education. She has over 75 publications that broadly address issues relating to early childhood, considering what is especially new an...

Beyond Anthropocentric Boundaries, Childling as an Embodied Kind of Praxis: A Conversation with Jayne Osgood and Sid Mohandas

Article Full-text available

May 2025

Matter Journal of New Materialist Research

Jayne Osgood · Sid Mohandas · Magali Forte · Jacky Barreiro

This intra-view explores the idea of “childling” as an embodied, relational kind of praxis that challenges colonial and anthropocentric frameworks in education. The authors discuss how childling disrupts linear notions of time, hierarchies of knowledge, and conventional adult-child binaries by focusing on sensibilities and relationalities. Grounded i...

Mar 2025

Jayne Osgood · Sid Mohandas

'Welcome to a conversation on Contemporary thoughts about Play and Early Childhood. We have titled this one MESS as it links to the barriers to and possibilities in dirty, disorderly play. It also references the tangled mess of childhood itself and early years education practices. With your work on post-humanist, new materialist practices around th...

Global Studies of Childhood

 Jayne Osgood ·  Sid Mohandas

This paper dwells upon what was agitated in a research methods workshop that invited postgraduate researchers to take seriously materiality, movement, bodies and affect – as a starting place to explore how ecopedagogies might become both more capacious and creative. We explored ways to contemplate how generating knowledge – about education and worl...

Feminist New Materialist Approaches to Childhood Studies

Nov 2023

 Sid Mohandas ·  Jayne Osgood

There is a growing body of feminist scholarship that has taken up “new” materialisms to research childhoods. Feminist “new” materialisms, as the name suggests, are marked by a renewed attention to matter. In previous feminist research, such as those informed by feminist post-structuralist and sociocultural approaches, matter was assigned an inert,...

Transforming Practice: A Critical Interrogation of Montessori

ArticleFull-text available

Sep 2023

 Sid Mohandas

When we trace the roots of the Montessori approach and locate it within its historical context, contradictory stories begin to emerge. On one hand, we can see how Montessori was primarily formed as a response to various social injustices and thus emerged as a justice-oriented project. On the other hand, the marks and traces of colonialism are clear...

Montessori and Gender: Recasting gender in Montessori contexts

Chapter

Mar 2023

 Sid Mohandas

Maria Montessori (1870-1952) was an Italian physician, anthropologist, and educator known around the world for her educational philosophy and pedagogy. Her work encourages educational environments tailored to the child where autonomy and independence are encouraged in the contexts of building community and peace education. The Bloomsbury Handbook o...

The State of UK Boys: An Urgent Call for Connected, Caring Boyhoods: A Report for the Global Boyhood Initiative

Article Full-text available

Nov 2022

 Sara Bragg ·  Jessica Ringrose ·  Sid Mohandas · [...] ·  Jill Merriman

From education and achievement to mental health and well-being to violence and aggression, the 'state of boys' has long been a feature of UK (and global) educational, societal and political debate. Against this backdrop, a raft of evidence-based research has not only contested the notion of a singular 'state' of boys, but also complicated the categ...

Grappling with the miseducation of Montessori: A feminist posthuman rereading of 'child' in early childhood contexts

Article Full-text available

Aug 2022

Contemporary Issues in Early Childhood

 Jayne Osgood ·  Sid Mohandas

This article demonstrates how feminist posthumanism can reconfigure conceptualisations of, and practices with, 'child' in Montessori early childhood contexts. It complicates Montessori's contemporary reputation as a 'middle-class phenomenon' by returning to the earliest Montessori schools as a justice-oriented project for working-class children and...

 Gender and Education

 Sid Mohandas

In the past few decades important work has been undertaken to unsettle essentialist conceptualisations of gender/sex in the early years workforce. Through an auto/ethnographic diffractive engagement that thinks with feminist 'new' materialist and postcolonial scholarships, this paper uncovers the need to move beyond an exclusive focus on diversifyi...

Figuring gender in early childhood with animal figurines: pursuing tentacular stories about global childhoods in the Anthropocene

Preprint Full-text available

Jan 2020

 Jayne Osgood ·  Sid Mohandas

This chapter considers the potential that a feminist new materialist theoretical framework makes to undertaking research into global childhoods as they materialise through everyday encounters with learning materials in a nursery classroom in London, UK. We trouble prevailing philosophies, pedagogies and worldviews that both frame practice and circu...

Early Years An International Journal of Research and Development

 Jayne Osgood ·  Sid Mohandas

This paper attempts to open out investigations in ECEC by working beyond anthropocentric accounts of gender. Drawing upon feminist new materialist philosophies we ask whether it might be possible to reconfigure ideas about gender that recognise it as produced through everyday processes and material-affective entanglements. In order to do this, we w...

Jan 2019

 Sid Mohandas

This research explores early years leaders' perceptions of how Ofsted affects their subjective wellbeing. It takes a mixed method approach, drawing data from an online survey (n=146) and in-depth interviews (n=7) with early years leaders in the UK. Even though the survey data shows that an overwhelming number of early years leaders experience stres...
